

A Lady of Uncommon Virtue: Isn't this better than being a bimbo?

Amanda Hawkins

A Lady of Uncommon Virtue

You bastard. How could you do this to me? I thought we were friends... and then you go and use your last wish to turn me into a chick? What the hell? Riches and good health for yourself---I get that. But this? You could've had any woman you wanted and even made her fall in love with you. Why'd you pick me?

Well... we always got along so well, same interests and stuff... I just figured it'd be easier to make a physical change than try to edit some girl's mind to be more like yours. Besides, I made you love being female, didn't I? You wouldn't even turn back if you could... would you?

No, dammit! I love this body, and you made it so that I can't help acting all feminine and stuff, which is why I can't stop smiling because that's what nice girls do. Plus everybody on the whole effing planet thinks I grew up female, so I'll have no trouble living this new life that stupid genie conjured up. But that doesn't change the fact that you forced this on me.

Hang on. Didn't I say you had to be attracted to me? Your sexual orientation and all that? You're straight, aren't ya?

God, yes. I'm so into you I can barely think straight. But I'm not some mindless bimbo either. What you did was selfish and wrong, and I have way too much self-respect to be with a man like you just because he's sexy as hell and filthy rich to boot. I'm not that kind of girl. Nope, you've got a long way to go to win this gal's heart. And while we're on the subject... I can't help wondering, what are you planning to do with all that cash?

Huh? Gee, I hadn't given it much thought. I've always wanted a jet ski. Oh, and one of those awesome flyboard things where you fly over the ocean on jets of water.

Hmmph. Boys and their toys. Still, I suppose even a multi-billionaire deserves a few nice things. Tell you what... drop enough cash on Doctors Without Borders to rid the world of cholera and I'll let you get a jet ski. You know what? I can almost imagine being with a man who would do something that selfless. Almost.

Uh-huh. What else did ya have in mind?

We'll discuss it over dinner. Hand me that gown the genie left. Hmm. How'd you feel about buying Fox News and handing it over to some real journalists?